MID-SEASON IN MAJORS FINDS SIX CLUBS AS POSSIBLE WINNERS IN THE AMERICAN

Athletics' Slump Feature of Last Week's Play; Cubs Also Hit Toboggan and Drop

NEW YORK, July 12.—The half-way mark in the major league baseball season, reached this week, finds six clubs in each league still an open race, with pennant possibilities for at least three clubs in the National and six in the American. While the struggle between the New York and Chicago teams in the National league brought to a climax by the meeting of the two clubs in Chicago today, is a focal point for the eyes of baseball fans, the more sustained interest at present is in the American league race.

Not in years has this organization witnessed so tense a struggle for honors. When play closed last night the Athletics were only two and one-half games over Detroit. Washington was but three games behind the leaders, Chicago half a game further down and St. Louis four games removed from the front. Boston trailed in the leading sextet, five games from the top.

Connie Mack's men finished the week's mauling by losing to St. Louis in a 12-inning game, but taking the second contest of the double-header. The New Yorks beated the Clevelanders three games in four and worked further away from the cellar position.

Boston was the obstacle in Chicago's way which prevented the National league race from being still further tightened up during the past week. The New Yorks starting off with a defeat in the second game of a double-header with Brooklyn, on Monday, dropped a game in Pittsburgh on the way west and were on the losing side of three consecutive games in St. Louis before they finally got the decision in a slugging match with the Cardinals yesterday. Their losing streak totaled five straight games.

Cubs Hit Snag.

Meanwhile, however, the Cubs were having a hard time of it with the Braves. O'Day's warriors, battle as they might, were able to take only one game in four from Stallings' team and went into the series with New York, beginning today, three games and a half behind. St. Louis gained most advantage, putting up somewhat on the Cubs and considerably on the Giants.

In the Federal league race, Chicago managed to stay in front. Two defeats for Indianapolis at the hands of St. Louis put the former temporarily out of the running in the struggle for first place, and Chicago made certain its hold for a few days by winning the first game of the series with the Hoosiers.

Brooklyn's slump furnished most of the excitement in the outlay circuit and was a direct cause of the only change in relative positions made in the league during the week. Baltimore was the victim of the Brooklyn winning streak. The record in each major league game played, won and lost, with runs, hits, errors and men left on bases, follows:

FOUR MILLION DOLLAR WAR FUND OF O. B. TO BEAT FEDERALS HAS DISAPPEARED

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, July 12.—Where's that $4,000,000 war fund that organized baseball told us it had on tap last fall just at the time that the Federals were beginning to sit up and take notice?

As far as anybody has been able to see, that war fund was just a myth and a bluff. It was a bluff intended to frighten the Federals, but which didn't frighten 'em one little bit.

It seems to most people that it would have been a mighty good plan for organized baseball to have had a war fund on hand. They certainly need it now. Such a fund would give them the real weapon with which to whip the Federals. All the other weapons they have used, such as weekly predictions that the Feds would bust up the next week, daily shouts of "The Feds are jokes," and threats to black list all jumping players, have proved futile.

And it seems almost time that organized baseball, if it expects to crush the Federals, get busy and use the same tactics that have made the Feds what they are. Why don't Ban Johnson and John T. Kenner order the managers to begin raiding the Feds? Why don't they outbid the Feds for players who are on the point of jumping? Why don't they try to get back those who have jumped by offering them higher wages than the Feds now are paying them?

Of course, to do that it would mean that the organized people would have to unstrap their bank rolls and pay out as much as they expected to make during the next year or two. But isn't it worth it?

No league can exist that hasn't the star players. It has been shown that the players are fickle, that they'll go where the most money is for them. So why is organized baseball standing idly by, letting its best players jump, and doing nothing but going into the courts and restraining the players from playing?

It may be a good move from organized baseball's viewpoint to use court action to bar the players from jumping with the Feds, but if this jumping and restraining business keeps up, there'll be only a corporate's guard of players left in the favor in the grand old pastime. And it's a cinch that the fans won't pay to see baseball played in the courts.

The Feds have come to realize that there is a rather tight position and that the only way out is to spend a million or two in getting real ball players. And that's what they are doing. They are bidding high—bidding unheard-of prices for ball players, and they know that if they get the cream of the talent in the organized majors the expenditure will be worth while. They then will have real players. Organized baseball will have the leftovers. And the crowds won't go to see the leftovers.

Few Millions Left.

Nothing sounds quite so absurd as these weekly predictions on the part of Ban Johnson and his colleagues in organized baseball that the Feds will certainly bust up the next week. The F. B. magnates have a few million dollars at stake. Most of them are mighty shrewd business men. They know that when caught in a tight corner the best way for them to loosen more money and pull yourself out of it, is to build now for next year, and it seems pretty certain

7007 RFT CREAM OF SEMIPROS FOR GAME TODAY AGAINST ST. JOE

Starts at 3 o'clock at Zoo Park and Will Be Fast From Start

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 12.—The fastest semiprofessional lineup that ever gathered at Zoo park will represent the locals this afternoon at 3 o'clock in their game against the St. Joseph Western league team and every effort will be made to win from the league, who are on their way to Denver to open a series that will decide leadership in the league.

"Billy" Word, the speedy little second sacker of the Knights of Columbus, will be on second. Moore, who yesterday played a star game for the locals, will be on third, and Waller, "Dutch" by nickname, will be behind the bat. Waller has caught for the Port Lander team and is the best backstop in the state semiprofessional circles. Fushik, the star local pitcher, will be in the box, and either Glaze or Pursell, both league leaders, will hurt for the visitors.

The St. Joe team has been the sensation of the Western league this season and is now only a game behind the Grizzlies, league leaders. Schang, the drummer catcher, is a brother of Waller, and is one of the crack men of the league slated to go to big company next season.

As this will probably be the only chance for local fans to see league players in action, a large crowd is expected. Manager Colburn has made every effort to get the locals in shape to put up a stiff fight. The cream of semiprofessional talent in Colorado will be here.

C. S. Police to Get Even With Pueblo Coppers August 1

On Saturday, August 1, there will be some real excitement in Colorado Springs. Yesterday morning a detective from our fair neighboring city, Pueblo, called at the police station, and after arranging several matters of public protection, he started a bitter argument with Sergeant Springer over the styles for women this year.

As a result, Springer, jumping from his easy chair, hurled a challenge for a duel into the face of his opponent. Therefore, on August 1, the Pueblo police department's baseball team will meet the local police department's team at Zoo park. Detectives and patrolmen, drivers and speed cops will make up the teams, with detectives thrown in for good measure.

As a condition to coming to Colorado Springs, the Pueblo coppers forced an agreement from Commissioner Johnson's brave boys to play a return game in Pueblo a week or so after the local melee.

Federal League

ST. LOUIS, 4; KANSAS CITY, 1. ST. LOUIS, July 12.—A triple by Chapman in the second inning aided by several singles gave the local team three runs, a lead which the visitors could not overcome. The final score was 4 to 1 favor St. Louis.

Score, first game: R.H.E. St. Louis 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4-1 Kansas City 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1-0 Stone, Cullip, Harris and Easterly; Davenport and Chapman.

DIVIDED DOUBLE BILL. CHICAGO, July 12.—Sensational fielding offset a wild pitching in the Federal league double-header here today, and Chicago won and lost to Indianapolis, winning the first game in 13 innings 5 to 3 and losing the last 2 to 4.

In the first Chicago tied the score in the eighth when Wilson hit a home run. Then, Wickland, second, when Campbell dropped a fly ball, the Indians filled the bases in the tenth, but with two down, Wickland made a sensational catch of Carr's line drive to right center.

Score, first game: R.H.E. Chicago 5 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 5-3 Indianapolis 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3-1 Fisk, Hendrix and Wilson; Mendenheer and Radburn.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

LUCAS VICTOR OVER S. I. The Lucas team yesterday afternoon on the Boulder park grounds defeated the Short Line team by the score of 10 to 8. The feature of the game was the homerun by Stanley. Batteries, Lucas—Hoskright and Green; Short Line—Griffin and Doyle.

Report in Denver That C. S. Is After Topeka Franchise

Inquiries from Denver last night disclosed the fact that the talk is going around the Western league circuit that Colorado Springs is after the franchise of the Topeka club. President Morris O'Neill of the club is in Denver and refused to comment on the talk.

Secretary A. W. Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce last night denied any knowledge of the plan and stated that the organization had done nothing this year about getting a league franchise. Two years ago a plan was on foot to transfer the July and August games of the Topeka team to this city owing to poor support at the Kansas capital and the hot weather but the plan fell through.

Owing to the lack of ball parks for Sunday games it is probable that this year at least, there will be nothing doing in the way of getting Western league ball.

Baseball fans are considering it for next year but the movement is in the air.

JOHNSTON, MARVEL OF NET GAME, LOSES TO R. N. WILLIAMS

Pacific Coast Star in Poor Health and Service Loses Effectiveness

NEW YORK, July 12.—In a hard-fought, three-set battle, R. Norris Williams II, beat William Johnston by a score of 2-6, 9-1, 5-4, in the final of the Davis cup tennis tournament on the courts of the Country club of Westchester today.

Johnston, the California boy, suffered from the heat and it took much of the snap from his game. As it was his second match since his return from the snap from his game. As it was his second match since his return from the snap from his game. As it was his second match since his return from the snap from his game.

Johnston's deep driving and his cleverness in working for passes made it possible for him to win five games in a row in the first set. The heat Williams could do was to get the first and seventh games.

In the second set, Johnston led a 6-5 on games and was within two strokes of the match. Williams keyed himself up to a wonderful burst of speed, and by marvelous court covering in the rallies, saved the set at 9-7.

Johnston's physical condition was evident in the third set, and it was because of this that the match was shortened, three sets instead of five being played. Williams played his opponent to a standstill. Johnston weakening so that the last point was a double fault on service from his side of the net. R. ZOOZ WIN IN THRILLING FINISH AGAINST VOTTRELLS; FOWLER'S DRIVE RESPONSIBLE

Visitors Come Back in Ninth and Thump Mr. Lomax From Hill; Locals in Good Form

The well-known team of electricians, Messers, Fowler and Hastings, can be thanked for pulling yesterday's victory of the Zooz with the Cottrells of Denver out of the fire. After the locals had tucked the Cottrells away and were getting ready to leave the park in the first half of the ninth, Lomax weakened, walked two men and a brace of hits sent three runs over two more than a 10 at three our home boys had amassed. After most of the damage had been done, Lomax was retired and Hastings jerked from center field. Hastings hadn't pitched any to speak of this season and went in the box with his arm stiff and with two men on bases. He struck out two men and another fired in the second.

With two runs against them, the locals went into the ninth inning a 2-0-1 shot to lose. Fowler fired out to left field. Fowler, batting for Schneider, drew a base on balls, and Hastings did likewise, his fourth walk of the day. Then Fowler met the first ball and sent it into the centerfield orchard for a triple and two runs scored. Moore was walked and Carden then punched a sacrifice hit that allowed Fowler to cross with the winning run.

Lomax ran up until the ninth inning had pitched the best game of his career. His curve ball was breaking nicely and he had 13 strikeouts; but he blew and spilled his snowy white reputation for the day of rest. He walked seven men.

The Zooz slumped the reach quite successfully in one inning, the sixth, and as a result, six hits, one a home run by Moore over the left field gate and a triple by Lomax, sent five runs in. Smith, who was in the hit for the Cottrells, was going bad this inning, and was literally knocked out of the box by a line from Carden's bat that struck him on the ankle. Burcher replaced him, but he was nervous in the ninth and let three bases on balls and three Fowler a shoulder-high ball and bango, three runs and a victory.

The game was filled with thrills from the very start and the enemy took a three-run lead that looked good for the game. A series of lucky hits that just missed the fielders resulted in two scores in the fourth.

Base Running a Scream. The base running of the day was a fit subject for some humorous publication, such as our evening contemporary. It was as wild as a young antelope. Many Zooz were potted at attempting to steal, and Jack Vernon, late of the United States army, provided the best sport of the day in his antics.

Index: Jones, 5 in 4 1/2 innings. First base on balls—Off Turner, 3; Jones, 2. Double plays—Hunter to Jones; Tallion to Koerner.

Two-base hits—Breen, Tallion, Moiridge, 1; Reanan, 3. First base on balls—Off Moiridge, 1; Reanan, 2. Double play—Lattimore to Bowen to Koerner.

NAMING A CITY. From the Battle Creek Idea. The name "Battle Creek" suggests turbulence and strife, but the ways of the city are ways of peace. The name is the white man's version of a more poetic name, Waupakisko.

PRESIDENT BAN JOHNSON

President Ban Johnson of the American league declared himself too busy to discuss further reports of the formation of a new "big league."

President Chibington of the American association says that no plans for a new league under wing of organized baseball had been suggested to him. He reiterated that the American association was able to weather the storm brought on by Federal competition, and says that he expects no changes in the circuit.

FEDERAL PLAYER BREAKS LEG SLIDING INTO BASE. WASHINGTON, July 12.—Guy Zinn, left fielder of the Baltimore Federals, broke his leg sliding into third base in the ninth inning of a game here today between Baltimore and a local semiprofessional team. Zinn, who formerly was with the New York Americans, will be out of the game for the rest of the season.

Thinking It Over on National Capitol Steps

From the "sifters" this liquid-like mass passes through a square box or chute in this are arranged a number of horse-shoe magnets, which attract to themselves and hold any particles of harmful material that may still remain in the mixture.

It is next dumped into still another tank dubbed the "smooth agitator." In this tank the fluid is kept in constant motion by a number of paddles. From this the mixture is forced under high pressure into a "presser." Here a peculiar arrangement of steel chambers packed with heavy canvas allows the water to escape, filtered, pure and clean, but retains the clay in discs or leaves, each weighing about 30 pounds. In many plants the water is run into a tank and used over again. Some do not do this, but it was found that a certain amount of the strength of the clay went with the water. For this reason it is advisable to keep on using the water over and over again.

After the water is excluded, the slip is termed clay, or "mug," which is formed into "loafs," each about 42 inches, and put on trucks and taken to the "clay cellar." Here they are mailed together. The longer the clay remains in the cellar the better. About three weeks is considered a good time. The clay is then taken to the "pug mill" where it is ground up together, reduced to a uniform consistency, and then out into blocks of convenient size.

After obtaining a good clay, the next thing in the working of a pottery is the "mold shop." Without mold ware cannot be made. The first thing decided upon is the shape. Take a plate, for instance. This plate is made just the size desired, the workman utilizing a special clay. Then it is set on a slab and plaster run over it. After the plaster is taken off the workman has what is termed a "block." Soap is now put on this block so that the next plaster will not stick. When the plaster is run over this he has what is called a "case." He makes only one block, but about a dozen "cases." In turn more soap is put on this "case," and more plaster is put on this "case," a "mold."

Articles of different shapes vary the exact method of handling the clay. Some are molded by hand in plaster of paris molds; others formed by machine. To make a plate, for instance, the workman takes a lump of clay as large as a tennis ball. He lays this on a flat stone and with a large, round, flat weight strikes it a blow. This flattens the material until it resembles dough rolled out for cake or biscuits; only instead of being white or yellow it is of a dark gray color. A hard, smooth mold, exactly the shape and size of the inside of the plate is at hand. Over this the workman clasps the flat piece of clay.

Then the mold is passed to another workman, who stands before a rapidly revolving pedestal, commonly known as the "potter's wheel." On this wheel is placed the mold and its layer of clay. The "jiggerman," for such he is called, pulls down a lever to which is attached a steel scraper. As the plate rapidly revolves this scraper cuts away the surplus clay and gives to the back of the plate its proper form. The plate, still in the mold, is placed on a large board, together with a number of others, and shoved into a rack to dry.

Other dishes and ware of a special nature are turned out by pressers. This means molding by hand, the method which followed the original procedure of a "thrower's wheel." Since the invention and improvement of the finger pressing is mostly confined to the molding of larger styles of ware.

Sufficiently dried through modern means of separate heat units and proper ventilation, the plate is taken from the mold, the edge smoothed and rounded and all minor defects remedied. It is then placed in an oval-shaped receptacle called a "sagger." Two dozen plates may be placed in one of the sagers. They are packed in fine sand and the sagger placed in one of the kilns. The kiln full, the doorway is closed and the dishes, subjected to a terrific heat for about 48 hours. When the plate is taken from the kiln after the first firing, it is pure white, but of a dull, velvety texture. In this stage it is known as "bisque ware."

To give it a smooth, high finish, the plate is next dipped into a solution of white lead, boric acid and silica, dried, placed in what is known as the "glaze kiln" and again fired. When it is taken out for the second time the ware has acquired a beautiful, hard, shining glaze that delights the eye. In this condition it is now known as "plain white ware," and is finished unless some decoration is to be added.

Most people are surprised to learn that the greater part of the gold which adorns dishes is put on by a single rubber stamp. Two preparations of gold are used. One is a commercial solution called "liquid bright gold," the other is very expensive and is simply gold beaten into a fine dust, with acids to the right consistency.

Decorating in colors is now done almost exclusively by decalcomania art transfers. The day of the hand painter has about passed. The best exemplification of the new procedure is to return to one childhood days, when we used colored transfers to make pretty pictures on paper and dishes. It is exactly the same process, only modernized. These decalcomania patterns are made mostly in Europe, principally in England and Germany. After the gold and colors are applied the ware must again go through the oven's heat for a period of 12 hours. This time it goes into the decorating kiln, a smaller receptacle than either the bisque, or glaze kilns, but similar in character. Then the piece, finished at last, is ready to grace your table. The dull gray clay has become a beautifully finished dish, a delight to both housewife and guests.

The number of bulbs, which have been planted this season in the royal gardens at Hampton Court palace, England, exceeds 1,000,000, the weight being between two and three tons. There are 140 beds, with an average of about 3,000 bulbs to a bed; while the great 10-foot border, which extends from the river to the Hampton court road, takes more than all the beds.

ATHLETE TO EAT ONLY RAW FOOD

From the Minneapolis Journal.

To prove that raw vegetable diet will give a man greater endurance than any other, Alexis Ross, Russian athlete, is going to walk from Minneapolis to New York, live out of doors the entire time, eat Minnesota hard uncooked wheat and other raw foods and talk of the new way of living as he goes.

Ross will make the trip under the direction of the Raw Food club of America and the Raw Food club of Minneapolis, and he declares that when he has finished the trip he will be found in better condition physically than any man who has made the trip under other conditions of diet.
